The Armbetice at Tours.

(Special to Tribune.)

Losdon, Nov. S.—A dispatch received this morning by courier from Tours says: "An armstice will probably be signed to-day on the basis proposed by Grawville, viz., for a constitutional assembly to be called for the 18th test. The Tours delegation do not approve of an armstice, believing it to be the sure prediminarly to peace."

Losdon, Nov. S. S. P. M.—No confirmation has been received a contradiction this morning, but received a contradiction in the attention. The conflicting reports caused a commotion in the Steck Exchange, and all kinds of securities, including American, fluctuated violently.

Comditions of the surrender of Meta.

Loxbox, Nov. 3.—The evening journals print, in a supplement, the agreement in regard to the capitulation of Meta, by which the Prussians grant the right to French civil officials to remove or remain at their option undisturbed in person or property. None of the inhabituate sidbert in their civil or military expectly are to be interfared with, or held responsible for any previous act or for their political opinions. The sick and wounded are to have every care, and families of officers or soldiers serving in the armies of France are not to be micested in any of their rights. Public property, with the archives, money, and papers, are to have protection. The mode of disposing of the wounded prisoners is also prescribed.

The charge is reiterated by the Prussians that Oct. Waldoises, of the Queen's guard, was betrayed and musdered near Bourget by means of a flag of truce treacherously displayed by the Freich.

THE RAID ON DISTULLERIES.

NEW YORK, NOV. 3.—The raid upon the inheit distilleries of the Fifth ward, Brooklyn, yesterday, was a most declaire affair, and will be resumed again this morning and contimed notil every illeit still in that section is destroyed. The liveliest interest in the exmedition was a section of the section. timed nofit every lilleit still in that section is destroyed. The liveliest interest in the expedition was manifested by all the United States officials, both military and civil, with the single exception of Gen. Vodges, who commanded, and who is said to have kept twalve hundred men waiting an hour while he leigurely ate his breakhat. This interval of an hour pat the inhabitants upon their guard, and gave them an opportunity of forming a sort of mob organization, and of removing a portion of their appliances for whisky-mak.

and gave them an opportunity of forming a sort of mob organization, and of removing; a portion of their appliances for whisky-making.

The excitement in the vicinity of the operations was hetenee, and a mob numbering between four and five thousand resisted the attack of the United States officials. As the morning approached one of the largest distilleries was surrounded by a cordon of fences. A heavy five of pistols, guns, and fron botts was received from the roofs in the vicinity. The officers kept close to the fence, while the men pulled it down and, with their bayonets lowered, charged on the mob, which retired hastily but defiantly into an adjoining back yard, whence again, from every position of advantage they could gain, they show cred down a hall storm of provised projectiles. This fence was forn down by order of Col. Broome, commander of the Marines, and the troops renewed their charge, driving the riotous crowd into attill a third inclosure, from which shey were in turn driven as the poins or abunding which presented itself, and the mobrushed in great disorder through the liquor store into York street and was instantly swallowed up in the crowd of angry lockers on at these assaults.

The marines were exposed to a heavy fire which fortunately did little injury, the mob not feeling their position sufficiently sure to justify them in stopping to take deliberate aim. In each of the different enclosures broken into by the marines there was found a store of brickbats, evidently laid by for use. The stern determination of Col. Broome and Capt. Meeker, the second in command, and the gallent bravery of the marines, won the place against a ferre was desporate resistance, and the victory was but sullenly accorded. As soon as the last of the whishy seconderd to repeat the stack upon his command, and the place against a ferre was desporate resistance, and the victory was but sullenly accorded. As soon as the last of the whishy seconded to repeat the stack upon his command, should be killed. There was accordingly no pe guised. There was accordingly noffurther outbreak, though a sullen crowd hung loweringly around the troops.

At an early hour this morning a rictous erowd is collecting at various points around the mayy yard, and steam tugs are now waiting to convey assistant assessors, marines and troops to such points as are signaled. Much excitement exists. NEW YORK, Nov. 8-2:15 P. on illicit whisky stills in the Fifth ward, Brooklyn, was continued to-day. Along fundom avenue, from Sand river, a strong force of marines are stationed with fixed bayones to keep off the erowd, which threaten to interfere. A dozen cart loads of

STIL LATER—TROPHIES OF THE VICTORY.
The number of lilicit stills captured in Brooklyn yesterday and to-day is tweety-three, and that of mass-tubs, of course, much greater. To-murrow will probably suffice to finish the work in the First Ward, after which it is expected the Government officials will digect their attention to the Twelth Ward, equally colorious for i'licit distilling. The presence of the military in force prevented any interference with the revenue officers.

It is therefore not strange that they have asked of Secretary Fran the privilege of taking the matter into their own hands, and attempting a settlement through a commission of their own, independently of the United States Government. There would seem to be no good reason why this request should not be granted, for it is

While we must hold apart from the er While we must hold apart from the entanglements of European courts, and keep our official hands out of the very ancient and offensive mixture, that abomination of desolation for the people known as European diplomacy, we as citizens may respond to Kossurn's plea for France and peace and in the most potent fashion—we mean by the method of public opinion, which invades the mightlest of States, the most invincible of armes, and modifies if it does not directly shape the purpose of kings and statemen. M. Kossurn says: Concerning Proscription.

We suspect that, in making out its case of proscription, the Lounwille Commercial takes its illustrations from a vary exceptional, by no means a representative and an utterly unworthy class of people. It is impossible to believe that any large body of intelligent people in any part of the country, North or South, disturb themselves in their business and social relations very seriously by partisan considerations. That each of us should entertain strong convictions, and stand by them, is right; and that we should divide in parties is asternal. The interest of the country is served by party divisions, and—where they are properly conducted—by political discussion, or rather, let us cay, investigation. But to say that honest differences of opinion and animated debates really interrupt the course of those amenities which bless and charm our domestic life, is to augus ill at once for our civilization and our form of government.

In saying this we put forward no plea for the ascendancy of milk-and-water in our political literature. It is never necessary to be abusive in order to be strong. It is by no means essential to the amenikings and statemen. M. Koestvit says:

What have our German fellow-citizens to say to this just and admirable statement? Is it not true? And it being true, ment? Is it not true? And it being true, are they not bound, as honest me, true lovers of justice and liberty, to advocate the carse of Republican France, to withhold even from the kingly victor of Sedan, the august chastiser of France under the second empire, the approbation with which they followed him to the very walls of Parie?

But when Ometanast is notoriously unre-liable as a market, having on hand an so-commulation of old goods, which are sold st hard rates, and being destitute of trans-portation facilities, which forces its mer-chants to lery an additional tax on their sales, and when, besides these commercial disadvantages, Cincinnati wantonly, indis-criminately and persistently assalls the Southern people as "rebels" and "traitors," we say, "Spot Cincinnati, mark it, avoid it." Is this prescription? Is there any-thing mean or narrow is cracting a decent was bogus; no fight no homicide; no such persons. We have sent a detective with sales, and when, besides these commercial deadvantages, Cinciannati wantonly, indiscriminately and persistently assals the Southern people as "rebels" and "traitors," we say, "Spot Cinciannati, mark it, avoid it." Is this procaription? Is there anything mean or narrow is exacting a decent tongue from those who ask our patronage? The Commercial must rovise its position. Whatever size we do, for the Lord's sake, let's not go into the martyr business any more.

Ressuths Appeal.

There is something very pathetic in the supplications and appeals of the illustrious Republicans of Europe to our own powerful Republicans on Europe to our own powerful Republicans of the Republicans of the Republicans of France in the hour of her calamity, and yet also the hour of her calamity, and yet also the hour of her hope. The eloquent lips of patriots breathe forth the desire of hearts tried by the severest national afflictions; and we should be brutish indeed not to feel sensible to the tribute paid to us as the great bidwark of justice and liberty in modern civilization, and at the same time show some hospitality to every forlorn hope of nationality that seeks aid and comfort from us. These appeals are addressed to the American people, and not to the Government, and so far show on the part of European Republicans a just understanding of the source of all power in our political being. These appeals reach us as brothers interested in a cause which is common to all citizens—the cause of the people. And yet the traditional policy of our Government is against anything hice substantial aid to any people struggling cither against foreign aggression or domestic despotism. The tremendous disturbance, the added cause of internal dissensions, the almost inevitable conflict of races which would follow upon our own soil anything like aid and confort to Republican France, as op-Mr. Speed and Mrs. Johns.

We are flattered and we are saddened by the appeals that reach us from Euro-pean Liberals; saddened that we must seem so selfiably to withhold our hands from so selfishly to withhold our hands from helping a struggling and imperiled cause; flattered that we are recognized by the purest and most enlightened minds in Eu-rope as the strong and prosperous free people to whom the millions of the Old World look as the type of a just and natu-ral national development, as the potent triend most likely to understand their alms From the facts stated, Mrs. JOHES does need the aroon of the Government. Without such par-ion her property is lishle to be selzed, libelled and confected, and sold by juddent process.
